It's never been more important to communicate with impact, authenticity and human connection than in today's turbulent times.

Our [keynote/guest] speaker is an international expert in leadership communication and the speaking arts. Author of four books, a four-time TEDx speaker and Founder of The Leadership Speaking School, based in Switzerland, she transforms leaders and teams from the world's most well-known companies and organizations into authentic communicators of the digital age.

She is going to shine the light on what we can do to show up as the best versions of ourselves every time that we communicate with our peers, teams and customers.
